

Success Story

Outstanding Clerical Competencies Supplied

Challenge

One-in-a-million clerical worker

A supplier of services to small businesses needed an outstanding clerical worker who could bring all the competencies required as well as fit with the culture and brand of this growing company. It was a tall order.

Solution

Databases, connections, interviews and a very selective model

Having a clear idea of what the client was looking for, Manpower utilized internal and external databases and connections to find the best candidates. Dozens of connections were made and interviews scheduled. Being highly selective, Manpower presented two top notch candidates to the client.

Results

Complete confidence from a client who now just asks for “another Ann”

The client was so impressed with both candidates that another position was added and both were hired.

The client knew Manpower truly understood what they were looking for. In just a couple of months, they were sending orders simply saying, “I need another Ann” – and trusting Manpower to handle the interviewing and hiring. Manpower continues to recruit for the client, proactively preparing for openings that will occur as the company grows.

Explore what’s humanly possible at manpower.us

Manpower®

In just a couple of months, they were sending orders simply saying, “I need another Ann” – and trusting Manpower to handle the interviewing and hiring.